2011/2012 SEASON PRODUCTIONS

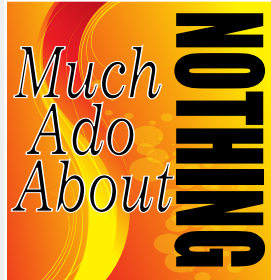

Charlotte's Web

from the classic book by E.B. White adapted by Joseph Robinette

December 1 - 4, 2011

Wilbur, the irresistible young pig who desperately wants to avoid the butcher befriends an extraordinary spider, Charlotte. Determined to save Wilbur, Charlotte begins her campaign to save him and along the way they both meet many new characters and learn the true value of friendship.

Much Ado About Nothing

by William Shakespeare

March 22 - 25, 2012

One of Shakespeare's greatest comedies about love, romance and friendship. We are witnesses to the romance between the young couple Claudio and Hero and the ongoing comedic feud between Benedick and Beatrice. Through all the trials and tribulations we learn that all the fuss really is, much ado about nothing!

All the World's a Stage

by Matt Thompson (Ages 13 - 17)

May 10 - 13, 2012

Presented by our advanced acting students, this collection of comedic one-acts will warm your heart and tickle your funny bone!

Student One Act Festival 2012!

August 16 - 19, 2012

With the assistance of working professionals, students write, direct, act and design nearly every facet of this production. Don't miss another year of hard work by our theatre school.

2011 / 2012 CLASSES & WORKSHOPS

$200 - 7 sessions of each class - all classes are held on Saturdays. Included is one free children's ticket to the current theatre school production and a tee-shirt. All classes may be repeated. It is highly recommended that students advance to the next level of classes after both Fall and Winter classes are complete. Please note that the classes are also built around certain age groups. Also, it is not always possible for friends and siblings to be in the same group/class. We will accommodate when possible. Thank you for your understanding.

Fall 2011 Session:
October 8 - November 19, 2011

Winter 2012 Session:
January 28 - March 10, 2012

Classes:

Creative Drama I: Imagination and Exploration (3rd & 4th Grade)
9:40am-11am
This course is designed to explore the imagination. Through improvisational play, we use the voice, body and individual creative energy for self expression, all while working towards telling a story. This class builds sensory perception and self-confidence.

Creative Drama II: Storytelling (5th & 6th Grade)
11:10am-12:30pm
Further exploration of creative imagination structured within the context of story telling. Using improvisation, as well as common stories, we create story concepts and ideas. Techniques such as staging, projection, blocking, and the rules of theatre are explored.

Acting for the Stage I (7th & 8th Grade)
1:30pm-2:50pm
Working with improvisation and scene study, actors begin the rudimentary development of character. Using voice, body, and speech, actors begin script work. We begin to explore the actor's tools, all while strengthening the command of language and physical awareness.

Acting for the Stage II: Styles & Forms (9th through 12th Grade)
3:00pm-4:20pm
Working with a chosen monologue, young performers refine their skills at character development. Each session, we focus on a specific genre of theatre whether it be Shakespeare, Greek, Modern, or Classical literature.

Advanced Acting By audition only. (9th through 12th grade)
For information please contact Theatre School Director Matt Thompson at matt@northcoastrep.org.
